FIND YOUR TRUE NORTH IN MINNESOTA

We've all taken a pause on vacations this past year, but as you begin to venture out again, Minnesota invites you to Find Your True North® in our great outdoors.

Your True North isn't a place, it's a feeling—something that feels wild and pure, where your story can flow like the Mississippi River and shine like the northern lights.

It's the jolt on your line when a walleye strikes the lure, the exhilaration of hitting the perfect drive or the quiet satisfaction of cross-country skiing through the North Woods.

And it's only in Minnesota.

FISHING & LAKE LIFE

Minnesota has some of the best freshwater fishing destinations in the country, from big lakes to scenic trout streams and the mighty Mississippi. Take your pick from thousands of great fishing spots where you'll find large and smallmouth bass, trout, panfish, northern pike, muskies and, of course, walleye. Catch your True North at ExploreMinnesota.com/Fishing.

VISITOR INFORMATION

The North Star State is easy to reach, whether you're flying, driving or arriving by train. No matter how you get here, we want your travels to be as smooth and hassle-free as possible. Read on for travel information and tips.

ARRIVING BY AIR

The Minneapolis-St. Paul International Airport (MSP) is a major hub of the Upper Midwest, and the 17th busiest U.S. airport for passengers. Minnesota is only about an hour away by air from most Midwest cities, and a two- or three-hour flight from the East and West coasts. The Twin Cities can be reached from several countries on direct international flights.

The airport is conveniently located on the south side of the metropolitan area, 12 miles southeast of downtown Minneapolis, 10 miles southwest of downtown St. Paul and just minutes from Mall of America in Bloomington.

Nine other cities are also served by commercial air service: Bemidji, Brainerd, Chisholm-Hibbing, Duluth, Fargo-Moorhead, Grand Forks-East Grand Forks, International Falls, Rochester and Thief River Falls.

MINNESOTA BY TRAIN

The Empire Builder Amtrak route crosses the state between the southeast and northwest borders, with stops in Winona, Red Wing, Minneapolis-St. Paul, St. Cloud, Staples, Detroit Lakes and Fargo-Moorhead. This route runs between Chicago and Seattle or Portland.

DRIVING TO MINNESOTA

Minnesota's central location makes it convenient to reach by car from much of the United States. It is midway between the east and west coasts, and the northernmost state along the Mississippi River.

The interstate highway system makes driving to Minnesota from other states a breeze, and eight Minnesota/Canada border crossings provide easy access for our northern neighbors.

TAKE THE BUS

Megabus provides express bus service to Minneapolis from several Midwest cities, including Chicago, Madison and Milwaukee. Greyhound and Jefferson Lines offer service to many Minnesota cities and provide convenient inter-city travel options within Minnesota.

WHAT TO PACK

Spring and fall, bring layers that can be added, depending on the temperature, and a lightweight coat or jacket. For winter trips, pack warm clothes, including sweaters, fleece or a blazer. You'll need a heavy coat, boots, a warm hat and lined gloves or mittens. As we like to say here, there's no bad weather, only bad clothing!

INTERNATIONAL VISITORS

Visitors from other countries are advised to exchange currency at their first convenience, since most Minnesota businesses don't accept foreign currency. Currency can be exchanged at the Minneapolis-St. Paul International Airport and at most large banks, or withdrawn from automated teller machines (ATMs).

TIME ZONE

Minnesota is in the Central Time Zone, one hour behind the East Coast, two hours ahead of the West Coast.

MINNESOTA'S CLIMATE

Part of Minnesota's appeal is that it offers four distinct seasons, each with its own particular pleasures.

SPRING

April–May features warming days, with high temperatures in the Twin Cities progressing from 50 degrees in early April to the low 70s by the end of May. Trees leaf out in bright greens, robins and other migrating birds return, and tulips and daffodils poke up from the earth.

SUMMER

June–August brings daytime temperatures in the 70s and 80s (and occasionally, in the 90s). The easygoing days of summer boast daylight late into the evening, with abundant sunshine to brighten outdoor fun.

FALL

September–November brings cooling temperatures and, with them, the bright colors of trees and grasses as they change from their lush summer green. This time of transition starts with daytime highs in the 70s and finishes with highs in the 30s by the end of November.

WINTER

December–March here has earned a reputation for its occasional extremes, but the average winter day is quite comfortable for outdoor activities like skiing or snowmobiling. For instance, the average high daytime temperature in the Twin Cities in January, the coldest month, is in the mid-20s.

ACCESSIBLE TRAVEL

MINNESOTA VACATIONS FOR EVERYONE

With everything from wheelchair-accessible trails and sensory-friendly theatrical productions to ASL museum interpreters, Minnesota destinations embrace accessibility for all.

For wheelchair users, exploring the great outdoors can pose a unique set of challenges. But thanks to accessible campsites, lodging and trails at Minnesota State Parks, wheelchair users can experience many of Minnesota's incredible, one-of-a-kind outdoor adventures.

You'll find three especially wheelchair-friendly outdoor excursions on the Douglas, Root River and Willard Munger State Trails. Just outside of Rochester in southern Minnesota, the 13-mile Douglas State Trail gives you a fully paved slice of the region's rich agricultural land, scattered wetlands and rural scenery.

Head east into Minnesota's Bluff Country to explore the 19-mile section of the Root River State Trail from Lanesboro to Rushford. This flat, paved section of the trail provides dramatic views of the region's soaring limestone bluffs and abundant wildlife.

Just outside of Duluth, a 14-mile paved segment of the Willard Munger State Trail cuts a path through the area's spectacular hardwood-pine forest, with picturesque vistas of Lake Superior and the St. Louis River where the trees clear.

SENSORY-FRIENDLY ATTRACTIONS

You may find it surprising that two of Minnesota's busiest and most stimulating places, Mall of America and its indoor theme park, Nickelodeon Universe, are Certified Autism Centers. For the best experience, plan your trip for the pre-lunch hours, before the crowds get too big. Many of Minnesota's museums and cultural institutions also offer sensory-friendly visiting hours for people of all ages and abilities in a space adapted to their needs.

EVERY GUEST ~ EVERY TIME™

A PARK FOR EVERY SEASON

By Caitlin Hannah and Alyssa Hayes

Untamed natural beauty covers much of the Minnesota landscape.

The state has one of the nation's greatest, most diverse state park systems with more than 227,000 acres in 75 parks and recreation areas, as well as six national park sites, including the uniquely water-based Voyageurs National Park.

Visit any time of year—there's a park for every season in Minnesota.

SOAK UP THE AUTUMN COLORS AT THE HEADWATERS

Walking across the headwaters of the Mississippi River is a mighty Minnesota tradition. More than 2,500 miles north of its mile-wide mouth in the Gulf of Mexico, America's greatest river starts in northern Minnesota at Itasca State Park as a stream tumbling over a few rocks, easily crossed on foot.

While the Mississippi is undeniably its star attraction, there's much more to Itasca State Park than just the headwaters. This 32,690-acre park has it all—especially in fall.

Filled with a plethora of trees like ash, basswoods, birch, maple, oak and tamarack, the park makes for quite the breathtaking fall color show. The leaves are most vibrant between mid-September and early-October, and the season's cooler temps and smaller bug population make this the perfect time to visit.

Lace up your hiking boots to view the colors on 49 miles of trails, or climb the 100-foot Aiton Heights Fire Tower for one of the best autumn views in Minnesota. You can also see the fall colors from the water on Coborn's Lake Itasca Tours through the first week of October.

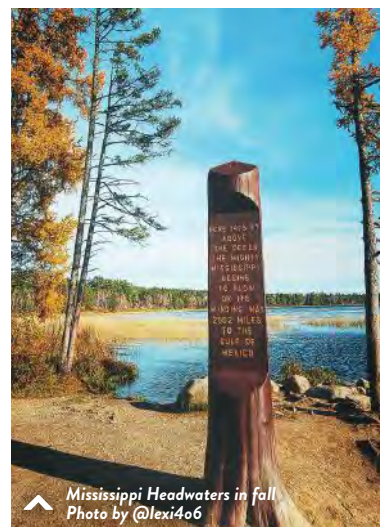

Itasca State Park has more than 200 campsites for tents or recreational vehicles, plus several camper cabins and rooms at the historic Douglas Lodge. Famous for its log cabin design, large stone fireplace and restaurant serving Minnesota favorites like wild rice and walleye, the Douglas Lodge is the epitome of Up North hospitality.

FALL

SLED THROUGH THE SPARKLING SCENERY OF VOYAGEURS NATIONAL PARK

When the weather turns cold, embrace Minnesota's winter culture and celebrate the season outdoors. For a true Minnesota winter experience, venture to Voyageurs National Park for a snowmobile trip through one of the state's most captivating landscapes.

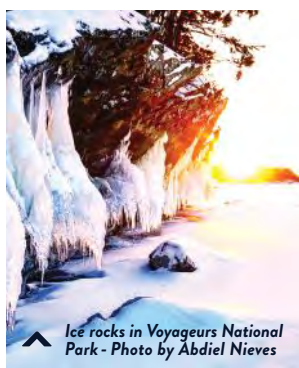

Nestled along the U.S.-Canada border, this remote 218,000-acre national park makes for an epic snowmobiling backdrop. Composed almost entirely of lakes, the interior of Voyageurs becomes a winter wonderland of glistening snow, frozen lakes and frost-glazed pines when the temperatures drop.

Snowmobilers are drawn to the park for its 110 miles of marked and groomed trails, mostly across frozen interconnected waterways and towering pine-lined portages. Rip across the park's main (frozen) lake tops: Rainy Lake, Kabetogema, Namakan, Sand Point and Crane Lake. In addition, the 11-mile, ungroomed Chain of Lakes Trail explores the rugged interior of the Kabetogama Peninsula wilderness. Many snowmobilers plan long-distance loop trips on area trails, linking into the park trail system along the way.

For the not-so-avid rider, snowmobile rentals are available at some area lodges or in International Falls, 12 miles west of the Rainy Lake Visitor Center. In addition to resorts around the perimeter of the park, there are several hotels in International Falls.

SUMMER

EXPLORE THE MIGHTY MISSISSIPPI FROM THE CITY

Mississippi National River and Recreation Area spans 72 miles within Minneapolis-St. Paul and its surrounding cities. A unique partnership between the National Park system, Minnesota State Parks, Minnesota Valley National Wildlife Refuge and numerous city and regional parks, it is a popular destination for anglers, boaters and paddlers.

During the summertime, the park comes alive with residents and travelers utilizing the trails, shoreline and water. If you want to get out on the water, the river offers many miles to explore.

If you don't have a boat, take advantage of the Mississippi River Paddle Share, a self-serve kayak sharing system that lets you check out a kayak at one station, paddle to your destination and return your kayak at another station. An additional, less athletic option, is to book a charter cruise on one of the river's posh paddleboat services.

You can take to the water to fish for bass, catfish, walleyes, sunfish, northern pike, muskellunge and more. Fish by boat, shoreline or at a fishing pier. Some of the best shore fishing can be found at Minnehaha Park in Minneapolis, Fort Snelling State Park or Hidden Falls Park in St. Paul.

The walleye and sauger bite is especially hot below Lock and Dam 1 in St. Paul. Keep in mind it's a catch-and-release fishery, so you may catch a lunker. If you're looking for bass, the Coon Rapids Dam Regional Park is a favorite among local anglers.

SPRING FOR A TRIP TO GOOSEBERRY FALLS STATE PARK

As winter turns to spring, take a road trip along the North Shore of Lake Superior to bask in the lush scenery and outdoor adventures. Along the scenic, 150-mile drive from Duluth to the U.S.-Canada border, you'll discover quaint harbor towns and eight of the state's most picturesque state parks, including Gooseberry Falls State Park near Two Harbors.

Considered the gateway to the North Shore, Gooseberry Falls is renowned for its spectacular waterfalls—and they're especially impressive in the early spring, as the snowmelt fills the Gooseberry River that feeds them. The park is home to five waterfalls, including three awe-inspiring—and loud!—ones where the Gooseberry River roars through a rocky gorge on its way to Lake Superior.

You'll find 20 miles of hiking trails at this popular destination, including the fantastic Fifth Falls Trail. This 3-mile trail loop passes by the park's well-trod lower and middle falls, winding northwest along the Gooseberry River to the less-crowded upper falls before continuing to the park's secluded Fifth Falls. If you're looking for a gorgeous hike with some of the state's most impressive waterfall views, it doesn't get any better than this.

Like several Minnesota State Parks and Trails, Gooseberry Falls State Park rolls out the red carpet with wheelchair-accessible amenities, including accessible trails so everyone can enjoy the glorious nature experience. The park also offers interpretive programs for kids and adults to learn more about the history, geology and wildlife of the North Shore region.

AN INTROVERT'S GUIDE TO THE BIGGEST STATE FAIR

IN AMERICA

By Said Farah

As an introvert, it's hard to go to the Minnesota State Fair and not feel overwhelmed by the large crowds.

Held annually over the 12 days leading up to Labor Day, the Minnesota State Fair covers 322 acres with rides, attractions and food (so much food). Typical daily attendance is between 100,000-200,000 people, with a record 270,426 single-day visitors in 2018. That makes it the largest state fair in America—and a tall order for someone like me, who has a hard time teaching a class of 26 students.

But, in addition to being an introvert, I'm also a foodie. So every year, for the greater good of my belly, I push my introversion aside to attend the fair, the most absurd, over-the-top and delicious food experience in the country.

You will find no shortage of foods-on-a-stick here, up to and including alligator. A friend of mine recently joked that after so many years attending the fair he had earned the nickname yaxaas cune, which is Somali for alligator eater.

My personal policy is: "Don't eat anything that could eat you if it had the chance." But being Somali means, amongst other things, that you appreciate ironic nicknames.

As a Muslim, pork is one of the Big Absolutely Must Not Dos in our faith, so I'll leave the great Pronto Pup vs. Corn Dog debate to someone else. Fortunately, with nearly 500 foods every year, it's never a problem finding delicious things to eat. Some of my favorite fair foods are cookies from Sweet Martha's, a brisket grilled cheese sandwich from RC's BBQ, chocolate-dipped frozen bananas from Go Bananas and cheese curds. Lots and lots of cheese curds.

Ordering food at the fair requires patience. You will be shoulder to shoulder with hordes of people just as hungry as you are, many of whom are rushing off to try this year's Next Big Food. I think that's one of the reasons so many foods are offered on a stick—who has time to sit down when there's so much to explore, see and consume?

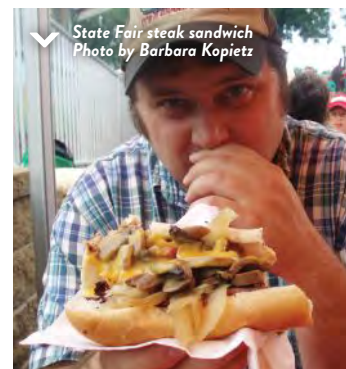

A trip to the State Fair isn't complete without jumping on a few rides. The Big Giant Ferris Wheel is a good option, as is the Very Large Slide. Obviously, these aren't the actual names of those attractions, but I'm a whimsical guy. Just go with it.

If you're the family type (or just a kid at heart), there are a ton of kid-friendly activities at the fair, too. Don't miss out on the petting zoo (my favorite), or the snake zoo and reptile show (not my favorite, but maybe yours?). I especially recommend you spend time in the butterfly house—it's like being in a Disney movie.

I find spending a full day at the fair a bit taxing, but the incredible foods, attractions and people-watching are well worth the challenge. Just remember to come prepared with a good pair of walking shoes, an empty belly and some noise-cancelling earbuds if you're the crowd-averse type like me.

DISCOVER MINNESOTA'S GREAT OUTDOORS

With pristine lakes, immense forests and rugged bluffs, Minnesota welcomes outdoor lovers of all kinds. And thanks to one of the nation's best state park systems, you have practically unlimited access to nature no matter where you are—from the middle of Minneapolis to the middle of nowhere.

ADVENTURES ON LAND

Thousands of square miles of enchanting wilderness cover Minnesota, much of which is protected federal or state land. Golf at one of the state's award-winning public courses, go bike touring along the Mississippi River Trail, cross-country ski across a pristine winter landscape, seek out rare animals in one of the state's wildlife refuges or go camping under the stars—countless adventures await.

ADVENTURES ON THE WATER

Home to the headwaters of the Mississippi River, the sparkling shores of Lake Superior, the Boundary Waters Canoe Area Wilderness and well over 10,000 lakes (11,842 to be exact), Minnesota beckons boaters, paddlers and other water lovers. Minnesota also offers some of the best freshwater fishing spots in the country, from big lakes like Lake of the Woods to scenic trout streams and everything in between.

BIKE TOURING THE MISSISSIPPI RIVER TRAIL

By Madilynn Garcia

I've been bike touring for a little over two years now. I love taking the opportunity to explore Minnesota on my bike, soaking in all that the state has to offer.

For my latest trip, I rode the Mississippi River Trail (MRT) from my home in the Twin Cities nearly 200 miles to the state's southern border.

I am lucky enough to enjoy the Twin Cities section of the MRT all the time, but its winding route through both downtowns never fails to impress. Once I made it through downtown St. Paul, I slowed down to enjoy the sight of the Mississippi River as it begins to widen.

The ride to Hastings—my destination for day one—took about four hours. I prefer a shorter first day; it means I'm not under a huge time crunch to leave town. While exploring Hastings, I stumbled across Vermillion Falls, a stunning waterfall right in the middle of town. I'd tell you to keep an eye out, but it's almost impossible to miss! After a picnic lunch at Levee Park along the Mississippi, I hopped back on my bike and headed to St. Croix Bluffs Regional Park to set up my campsite and relax with a book.

I spent the first couple hours of day two riding the 25 miles from Hastings to Red Wing. After browsing the Red Wing Shoe Company Museum until I got hungry, I wandered around downtown until the heavenly smell of Hanisch Bakery enticed me inside for lunch and probably the best donut I've ever had. After my meal, I biked the 14 miles to Frontenac State Park and set up camp.

After two relatively easy days of riding, I geared up for the lengthiest portion of the trip: Frontenac State Park to Winona. Even though this was my longest day of riding—55 miles—I immediately felt refreshed when I rolled into Winona late in the afternoon. I can confidently say this is the most charming town I've ever biked to. It has adorable cafes, self-guided tours of the historic downtown and, of course, the Mississippi River, which is absolutely stunning at this point. There are multiple campsites nearby, but I couldn't resist staying in a cute B&B with a view of the river.

After a restful night,

I took my time getting breakfast downtown before starting on the last (and hilliest) leg of my journey: the Apple Blossom Scenic Byway. Spinning my way to the top of each hill, I was rewarded with incredible fall views of the Mississippi River Valley—a solid trade in my book.

This was my longest solo bike trip ever, and an accomplishment I didn't know I was capable of just a few years ago. It was amazing to see how North America's most famous river transforms throughout the state. Maybe next year I'll ride the entire Minnesota portion of the MRT—starting at the Mississippi Headwaters in Itasca State Park!

WINTER FAT BIKING

If you're looking for a fun new way to embrace the Minnesota winter, riding a fat bike will put a smile on your face that's even bigger than your tires.

Most mountain bike trails in Minnesota are groomed for winter, and wide tires will make you feel ready to ride through anything.

Notable winter fat biking trail destinations in Minnesota include Cuyuna Country State Recreation Area in Central Minnesota, Theodore Wirth Park in Minneapolis and the more than 45 miles of groomed trails in Duluth.

LAKE OF THE WOODS:

WALLEYE CAPITAL OF THE WORLD

By Jess Myers

As a small-town Warroad kid who loved fishing, the shore of Lake of the Woods felt like the bustling center of the universe on a sunny June day.

Four decades later, this primary entry point to Lake of the Woods remains just as incredible as the version in my memories.

Straddling the border between Minnesota and Canada, Lake of the Woods is as far north as you can go without leaving the country. Nicknamed the “Walleye Capital of the World,” this massive body of water is one of the world’s best fishing destinations, luring anglers from around the globe to seek out its legendary walleye, along with sauger, northern, muskie and sturgeon among others.

On any given spring, summer or fall day, boats by the hundreds—from large-scale launches to low-slung vessels with serious fishing experts and more electronics than a lunar module to 14-foot aluminum kickers with teens—can be seen across the Big Traverse and around the islands of the Northwest Angle as their occupants scramble to grab the landing net and haul in a trophy.

In the spring, when the rivers are flowing and the water is cold, fishing with jigs in the area by Warroad’s famous water tower (the one with crossed hockey sticks on the front) is generally great. As the air and water warms in June and July, I venture farther out to places like 12-Mile Reef and 16-Mile Reef, where I look for fish lurking near the rocks, often by using downriggers.

And then there are Lake of the Woods anomalies, like the red-hot fishing spots a few miles north of Zippel Bay State Park, where there’s little underwater structure but anglers still routinely pull massive walleyes using a spinner and a minnow.

Warroad has changed a bit since my childhood. There’s now a lakeside casino and hotel, a microbrewery with a view of the water and a buzzing restaurant and food truck scene. But the main draw, fishing, remains the same as ever: perfect.

TOP TO BOTTOM, MINNESOTA IS FISHING PARADISE

With more than 10,000 lakes and dozens of rivers to choose from, finding a place to catch fish in Minnesota is like finding a slot machine in Nevada.

» Big water, big fish: Practically a miniature ocean, the world's largest freshwater lake—Lake Superior, in Northeast Minnesota—boasts massive fish that match its incredible size. Take a fishing charter out of Duluth, Two Harbors, Silver Bay or Grand Marais to catch lake trout, coho salmon and king salmon in addition to Minnesota staples like muskies and walleyes.

» Chasing cats on the Big Muddy: While the Mississippi River starts out as a tiny creek barely big enough for a kayak to navigate, America's most renowned river is home to great fishing for smallmouth bass, walleyes and even the hard-fighting channel catfish, everywhere from Lake Bemidji to Lake Pepin and further south. River fish prefer flowing water, so they are plentiful where streams enter the channel and in spots located downstream from locks and dams.

» Landing nets in the City of Lakes: Pulling in a flopping panfish with a view of the Minneapolis skyscrapers is truly one of those “only in Minnesota” experiences. Places like Lake Harriet, Bde Maka Ska and Lake of the Isles are hot spots for bluegills, crappies and even the occasional tiger musky thanks to stocking by the Minnesota DNR and a prohibition on non-electric motors.

GOLFING THE CLASSIC IN CENTRAL MINNESOTA

By Sherel Purcell

During a recent road trip through the Midwest, my husband John and I serendipitously ran into some fellow golf lovers who recommended The Classic at Madden's Resort in Central Minnesota.

The course wasn't originally on our itinerary, but their hearty recommendation spurred us to drive a few extra hours north and see what the fuss was about.

After driving all day, it felt good to stretch our legs on The Classic's perfectly groomed, green velvet fairways. The track winds through verdant northern forests, over hills and through tall grasses crisscrossed by wooden bridges spanning marshes, ponds, lily-padded wetlands and burbling creeks. We were immediately smitten.

Initially, the 545-yard, par 5 first hole appeared wide open, but we soon discovered otherwise. Its gradual slope had us shooting blindly to a distant hill—a challenging little trick of Midwestern geography that immediately validated the long drive here.

Approaching our second shots, we stared in disbelief at the drastically narrowed fairway that dropped sharply towards a clump of trees, partly obscuring marshy waters on the right. John, forced to shoot over this hazard, caught the left edge of the sizable green, sending the ball speeding right—just missing the hole.

I came up short with an open shot to the green that landed in a deep fairway bunker. My 65-degree sand wedge barely cleared the lip but was no match for the slippery green. We headed to the next hole humbled, a few strokes over par and hungry for more.

On the par 4 fifth hole, our joy turned to confusion as we approached the water fronting two greens—a unique feature of this course. I played to the much smaller but closer bailout green, while John went for the larger green 60 yards away. A better choice, as he parred the hole with a pleasing thunk into the cup while a loud splash completed my shot.

A few enjoyable hours later, we arrived at the signature, par 3 seventeenth hole. To avoid the hole's four sand bunkers and tight knot of trees guarding their emerald prize, we aimed straight for the pin. As the sun began to set over the course, we walked away happy with our hard-earned bogeys and vowed to take a caddy next time to help navigate the many challenges of this incredible five-star course.

OTHER NOTABLE GOLF COURSES

Beautiful, award-winning public golf courses are found throughout the Land of 10,000 Lakes, allowing golfers to experience more of Minnesota's great outdoors.

Giants Ridge, in the Iron Range of Northeast Minnesota, features two championship courses: The Legend and The Quarry. The more challenging Quarry course sits on an abandoned iron ore mine—a nod to the area's past—and features dramatic lake and forest views from elevated tees.

The Wilderness at Fortune Bay offers scenic and challenging golf surrounded by woodlands overlooking Lake Vermilion.

In the Twin Cities area, Chaska Town Course sits on a walkable, 285 acres of oak groves and marshlands designed by Arthur Hills.

Abutting the Chippewa National Forest in Northwest Minnesota, Tianna Country Club invites golfers to play her well-maintained fairways and greens amidst the undulating hills of the Leech Lake Area.

Wide open skies and sprawling prairies in the southern region of the state greet golfers at the Dacotah Ridge Golf Club—Minnesota's only course fully designed by Rees Jones.

CAMPING & HIKING ALONG THE MISSISSIPPI RIVER

By Sheila Regan

“Great River Bluffs State Park, in the Bluff Country of Southeastern Minnesota, has dramatic shifts in elevation and steep bluffs hovering over the lush Mississippi River Valley.

Part prairie, part hardwood forest, the landscape transforms as you move through it.

For a solo camping trip on Labor Day weekend, I was happy to have driven down the scenic route along the river. The bluffs popped in and out of view, all green and brown, with hints of orange and yellow.

When I arrived at the park, I ventured out for a hike along King's Bluff Nature Trail, which started out in an oak-hickory forest. Acorns lined the trail and crunched beneath my shoes as the forest shifted into a spectacular bluff prairie, lined with blooming flowers.

The vista at the end of King's Bluff is gob smacking. The glimmering water of the Mississippi River, surrounded by vegetation and framed by the rolling bluffs, made me gasp.

That evening, I pitched a tent, made a fire and ate Spanish ham and brie on a baguette. I also enjoyed a can of Lift Bridge beer I'd managed to keep cold in a cooler while listening to the burning wood as it crackled in tune with the sound of the wind blowing in the trees.

It was achingly quiet. Camping by yourself feels a bit lonely, but that's the point. It forces you to be present with your thoughts. I felt the warmth on my face from the fire, then, as if on cue, the moon appeared to keep me company.

That night, the wind blew off my tarp, and I had to get out of the tent to stake it down again. In the morning, a soft pinkish light greeted me. I made another fire and roasted a marshmallow for a s'mores breakfast.

On the second day, I made my way toward the Valley View vista. I found it very peaceful to hike alone through the tall trees, surrounded by an abundant undergrowth of white wildflowers and mushrooms. At the end of the trail, enveloped by red velvety flowers and grasses, I sat down and drank in the view of bluffs cascading down into the prairie below.

After a rest, I pushed on to visit the other trails. The East Overlook offered a tremendous view of where the Mississippi intersects with the Black River Delta, and the South Overlook was equally vast and rich.

GO WINTER CAMPING IN A YURT

As the weather gets chillier, consider camping in a yurt. These round, canvas-covered structures are hidden gems of the Minnesota State Park system. You'll find them at Afton and Glendalough State Parks, and Cuyuna Country State Recreation Area.

Yurts are kind of like tents, but more stable, and warmer. Modeled after the mobile homes used by nomadic groups in Central Asia and Eastern Europe, the yurts available at Minnesota State Parks are insulated, with wood floors and windows. Each yurt has bunk beds, an interior wood-burning stove (with complimentary wood provided in the winter) and a locker to protect your belongings. "They're completely rustic," says Assistant Park Manager at Afton, Ali Crofts.

Crofts herself enjoyed staying at yurts during her college days. "I love them," she said. "Our yurts are very popular all year long."

EMBRACE THE WINTER

WITH CROSS-COUNTRY SKIING

By Rachel Yang

When winter rolls around, snow sports are some of my favorite cures for cabin fever.

And because I live in Minneapolis, I don't have to look far to find my winter wonderland: With 20 miles of groomed cross-country ski trails to explore, Minneapolis' Theodore Wirth Park offers a breath of icy-fresh air for competitive and recreational skiers alike, all winter long.

Just north of downtown Minneapolis, Wirth is the Twin Cities' cross-country skiing hub. During the winter months, the park's lush golf course transforms into an expansive blanket of ski-ready snow, featuring rolling hills, tranquil meadows and charming views of the Minneapolis skyline.

When I'm looking for a tough uphill workout, I hit the Ridgeline and 18 trails on the north side of the park. When I'm just trying to get out of the house for a snowglobe-esque experience, I stick to the flatter Green Meadow Loop or JD Rivers Trail.

Skis and poles are available for rent at The Trailhead, the park's entry point for all things winter sports. This is also where you can purchase a day or season pass, which you'll need to ski any Minneapolis trail. First-timer? Sign up for a ski lesson; The Trailhead offers them for adults and kids.

FIND WINTER WILDLIFE IN THE NORTH WOODS

By Brian Fanelli

There are endless places to view winter wildlife in Minnesota, but my personal favorite is Bear Head Lake State Park.

Secluded in the vast North Woods near Ely, it's the perfect destination to view the eagles, wolves and moose that call northern Minnesota home.

Almost as far north as you can go without hitting Canada, the park epitomizes the Up North vibe: Pristine frozen lakes in every direction, dense pine forests, rolling hills and skies so blue they look like a postcard.

For the best wildlife viewing, I strap on my snowshoes and venture into the untouched winter wilderness before the sun is up. With my head on a swivel, I move quietly and slowly through the park, looking for mammal tracks in the snow.

The northern forest is home to white-tailed deer, black bear, moose, wolves and many smaller mammals; if you stay silent and keep your eyes peeled, you're practically guaranteed to glimpse a few of these majestic creatures.

For an especially rustic experience, try to stay at one of the park's five camper cabins. Named after some of the more prominent trees here (Aspen, Red Pine, White Pine, Cedar and Birch), they're the perfect home base for a couple days of winter adventures.

EXPLORE MINNESOTA'S NATIVE HERITAGE

By Aegor Ray

According to the Bdewakantonwan Dakota creation story, Dakota people and life began in Minnesota.

Through oral histories, we know that the Anishinaabe migrated here through a passage of the Great Lakes and clashed with the Dakota, but eventually came together in peace.

Today, there are 11 sovereign indigenous nations in Minnesota. The seven Anishinaabe nations are the Bois Forte Band of Chippewa, Fond du Lac Band of Lake Superior Chippewa, Grand Portage Band of Lake Superior Chippewa, Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe, White Earth Band of Ojibwe and Red Lake Nation. The four Sioux nations are the Shakopee Mdewakanton Sioux Community, Prairie Island Indian Community, Lower Sioux Indian Community and Upper Sioux Indian Community.

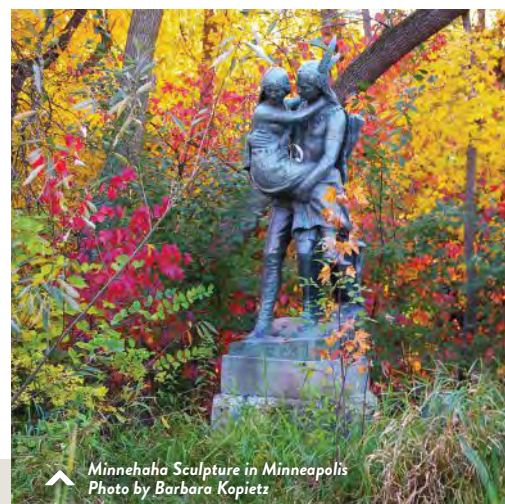

Minnesota is home to many heritage sites that explore Native history, artistry and living culture, including the Mille Lacs Indian Museum and Trading Post in Central Minnesota; Grand Portage National Monument along Lake Superior; Hočokata Ti, the Shakopee Mdewakanton Sioux's cultural center and gathering space; and the Jeffers Petroglyphs in Southwestern Minnesota, a rocky outcrop of over 4,000 images carved by indigenous societies as long ago as 7000 B.C.

Another such site, Reconciliation Park in Mankato, highlights one of the darkest moments in U.S.-Dakota relations. The park is located by the site of the largest mass execution in U.S. history, where 38 Dakota men were hanged as the last act of the U.S.-Dakota War of 1862. Inspired by the vision of Vernell Wabasha, a Dakota elder, the park features a buffalo monument carved from local Kasota limestone that is surrounded by prairie grasses. This somber monument is a commitment to healing between Dakota and non-Dakota peoples.

Native nations in Minnesota today have survived hundreds of years of calculated violence and, extraordinarily, have preserved their cultural legacies and traditions. At the heart of the original people is sovereignty, community and a profound relationship to the land—its waterways and seasons, all the gifts it has to offer.

INSIDE A POWWOW

Powwows are an important cultural tradition and intergenerational community get-together where Native people perform traditional music, dance and storytelling. Non-natives are invited to respectfully attend powwows to learn about this deep cultural legacy that preexists the United States.

These days, large powwows may have 25 drums and over 1,000 dancers—in a line stretching for a mile! Participants are expected to memorize songs down to the final beat, and they differ from region to region. Time, skill and artistry go into the songs and dances, which honor memories and share stories of creation.

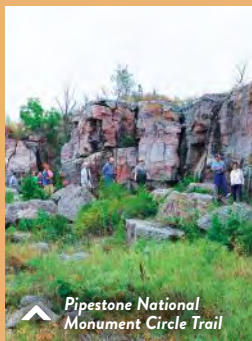

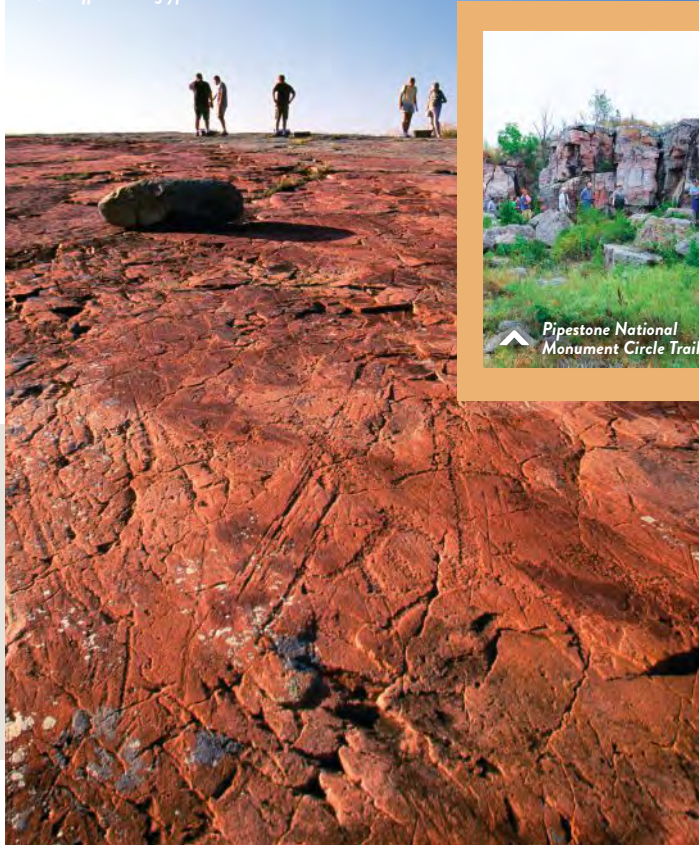

Bud Johnston, board president of the Keepers of the Sacred Tradition of Pipemakers, emphasizes the symbolic and narrative significance of different dances. Visitors should pay attention to the details in regalia, songs and style, which differ between dances. For instance, dancers and drummers may be accompanied by participants who place a pinch of tobacco onto a drum for a pipe ceremony.

Powwows also feature bustling markets with vendors that sell traditional foods such as fry bread tacos and wild rice, along with specialty crafts including native beadwork, medicinal plants and tinctures, and leatherwork.

Summer is peak season for Minnesota powwows, but indoor celebrations continue through the winter as well. Mille Lacs Band's annual powwow in August features majestic regalia and a celebration of Ojibwe culture. In September, the Mahkato Wacipi celebrates Dakota culture while honoring the memory of the 38 Dakota warriors executed in 1862.

EMBRACE THE NORDIC LIFESTYLE IN MINNESOTA

Home to the largest population of Norwegians and Swedes outside of Scandinavia (not to mention an NFL team named the Vikings), Minnesota's strong Nordic roots are evident and celebrated year-round.

NORDIC HERITAGE, CULTURE & DESIGN

Several museums across Minnesota celebrate Nordic roots and culture. Visit the American Swedish Institute (ASI) in Minneapolis where you can tour the historic Turnblad Mansion featuring sculpted ceilings, intricately carved wood, beautiful Swedish wool rugs and exquisite porcelain kakelugnar. ASI's contemporary Nelson Cultural Center showcases modern Nordic design.

Just a few blocks away, Norway House is dedicated to advancing connections between Norway and the U.S. through education, arts and business. Visit the art gallery to view rotating exhibits that explore Nordic themes and connections to the local community, then discuss what you saw over a hot cup of coffee at the in-house Kaffebar.

See Minnesota's oldest Lutheran church, a log home, barn, parsonage and cottage at the Gammelgården Museum in Scandia, an 11-acre site with historic buildings built by Swedish immigrants in the 1850s.

The Hjemkomst Center in Moorhead brings Nordic heritage to life with its Viking ship, stave church, special exhibits and large seasonal festivals.

At the North House Folk School in Grand Marais, along the scenic North Shore of Lake Superior, visitors can take courses year-round in traditional Nordic crafts such as timber framing, basketry and boat building, and in creating Nordic culinary classics like rosettes, krumkake, pickled beets, rusks, hard tack, speculos, glogg and kringle.

And every May, visitors can find festivals that celebrate Syttende Mai (Norway's Constitution Day) in cities with a strong Norwegian heritage, including Thief River Falls, Milan and Alexandria.

Discover fine Nordic gifts, food, needlework and clothing at Ingebretsen's, a South Minneapolis market that opened in 1921. Register in advance to take classes in traditional Nordic crafts, or make lefse (soft Norwegian flatbread), kransekake (a spectacular cake) or troll masks.

Venture south to Rochester's The Nordic Shop, the premier source for Nordic dinnerware, collectibles and clothing, including the largest selection of Dale of Norway and Oleana of Norway sweaters in the United States.

On Main Street in Stillwater, shoppers will find modern Swedish gifts and home decor at Scandinavian North. And in St. Paul and Mall of America, Fjällräven stores stock Swedish outdoor clothing and gear.

Finally, in the historic Mississippi River town of Red Wing, Uffda Shop carries unique Nordic gifts for all occasions, including fine porcelain, books, kitchenware, jewelry and clothing.

TASTES OF THE NORTH

A recent surge of "New Nordic" cuisine has swept Minnesota's restaurant scene. Housed inside the American Swedish Institute in Minneapolis, FIKA Cafe whips up traditional gravlax, Swedish meatballs, cardamom buns and more for its seasonally inspired menu. Nearby, in the North Loop neighborhood, the Hewing Hotel's ultra-stylish Tullibee restaurant serves Nordic-inspired fine dining.

In Duluth, Vikre Distillery makes and serves two styles of the original Nordic spirit, aquavit: a traditional version infused with caraway and cardamom, and a modern take with malted barley called "whiskey for Vikings."

For those looking for traditional tastes of Scandinavia, Minnesota also provides a veritable smorgasbord of lutefisk (whitefish, usually cod) and Swedish meatball dinners throughout the state, typically served in small-town church basements during the fall and holiday season.

THE ADVENTURE BEGINS IN MINNEAPOLIS- ST. PAUL

The state capital, St. Paul, and neighboring Minneapolis make up the Twin Cities, an incredibly diverse area with dramatic skylines, exciting pro sports, award-winning theater, renowned restaurants and a booming craft beer scene.

Explore bustling Minneapolis neighborhoods like the North Loop, Uptown and Northeast. Or soak up the laid-back vibe in St. Paul neighborhoods like Cathedral Hill, East Side and Grand/Summit.

When it comes to food, the Twin Cities is most famous for the cheese-stuffed Juicy Lucy burger, but you'll find everything from Nordic-inspired fine dining to some of the nation's best Vietnamese and East African cuisine.

The region is also home to big-name attractions like Paisley Park, Prince's former home and recording studio, world-class performance venues like the Guthrie Theater or First Avenue, and the nation's largest shopping and entertainment center, Mall of America.

For outdoor enthusiasts, the Mississippi River flows right through both cities, and the region's many lakes are perfect for kayaking, paddle boating, canoeing and more. You'll also find award-winning biking and hiking trails around practically every corner—including the world-renowned Midtown Greenway.

TWIN CITIES

WEEKEND STAYCATION

By Jasmine Brett Stringer

I spent a perfect August weekend touring my hometown, Minneapolis, and its adjacent ‘twin’ across the Mississippi River, St. Paul.

Although they’re right next to one another, the cities couldn’t be more different. St. Paul, the older city and state capital, feels similar to many charming East Coast cities with its narrow streets and stately historic buildings. Minneapolis, the younger and more modern city, is where I go for nightlife and trendy new restaurant openings. On this staycation, I opted to enjoy both.

I launched my weekend at the Minnesota State Fair, the largest state fair in the country! During its 12-day run, the fair basically becomes its own separate city, and I happily explored dozens of unique shops, agricultural displays and food stands as I wandered the grounds.

After half a day on my feet exploring the fair, I headed to St. Paul and drove along historic Summit Avenue to take in its elegant Victorian-era mansions—what a grand contrast to the fun and games of the fair!

At the end of the day, I headed to Keg and Case Market for dinner—a cavernous food hall packed with culinary delights from across the globe. I grabbed a Kingston-style jerk chicken bowl at Pimento Jamaican Kitchen, took a seat on the patio and ate while listening to a great live band.

My first stop the next morning was Paisley Park, Prince’s former home, recording studio and soundstage, now turned museum. I’m a huge Prince fan so I opted for the Ultimate Experience—an immersive, three-hour tour that’s probably the closest thing to understanding what the complex was like when Prince was alive.

Determined to spend the rest of the day outside, I headed to the trendy North Loop neighborhood in downtown Minneapolis to refuel at Wrecktangle Pizza before making my way to the Minneapolis Sculpture Garden. Using the self-guided tour sheet, I took in the many sculptures and was, of course, captivated by the iconic Spoonbridge and Cherry and Hahn/Cock blue rooster.

From there, I headed to the Stone Arch Bridge. The arches on this historic former railroad bridge are beautiful, and so are the views of the Mississippi River. The Guthrie Theater is just steps away, and since I was in full-on design-appreciation mode, I simply had to snap a photo of this modern addition to the historic riverfront neighborhood. I made a mental note to come back to the theater to catch a play.

Finally, I explored the Chain of Lakes just south of downtown. After a 3-mile walk around Bde Maka Ska (Dakota for White Earth Lake), I headed to Trio Plant-based—Minnesota’s first Black-owned vegan restaurant—for dinner. What a fun and refreshing way to close out my weekend!

LGBTQ+ TWIN CITIES: A PLACE TO BE WHO YOU ARE

By Mikah Meyer

As the LGBTQ+ hub of the Upper Midwest, Minneapolis-St. Paul offers the most affordable opportunity for a vibrant queer experience in America.

The Twin Cities do this by mixing progressive, pro-LGBTQ+ policies with the approachable culture and reasonably priced activities of the heartland. Drawing countless LGBTQ+ residents and visitors who come for that unique mix, the metro area ensures you can meet everyone from farmers to Fortune 500 executives within the queer community.

When it comes to activities, you'll find bars with multiple dance floors like The Saloon and the Gay 90s; a massive, free Pride festival that takes place during the perfect June weather; and Pride events hosted by each of the region's six pro sports teams.

But most importantly, no matter where you go in the Twin Cities, you can feel safe holding your loved one's hand. And if someone does bother you, you can bet Minnesotans will come to your defense. Because LGBTQ+ people aren't just accepted here, they're celebrated. With a welcome that goes far beyond "Minnesota Nice."

A WEEK EXPLORING OTTER TAIL LAKES COUNTRY

By Jenna Kvidt of Wander The Map

With over 1,000 lakes in Otter Tail County, there are plenty to pick from when selecting a Minnesota lake vacation destination.

For our weeklong getaway to Central Minnesota, Micah and I settled on Holly's Resort, located on the shores of Otter Tail Lake. Even though we grew up about an hour away from this resort, we never discovered all that the area has to offer and figured it was high time that we do.

As we checked into our lakefront cabin, we took a breath of fresh air and attuned ourselves to the sounds of life at the lake. The softly lapping waves, the soft laughter ringing out in the distance and the zooming boat motors conjured a wonderful Minnesota lake vacation feeling.

Most of our days at the cabin were spent alternating between soaking up rays on the dock, paddling in our kayaks, boating with our fishing lines dropped in the water and screaming with laughter as we tubed across the lake behind a jet ski. Once the sun set, we built a bonfire and roasted sticky marshmallows over the fire's flickering glow.

Fish fries and grilling were our daily meal staples, but we also decided we couldn't miss out on one of the most iconic summertime lake experiences around: boating to Zorbaz, a lakeside restaurant that offers an unlikely but delicious combination of pizza and Mexican food.

Even though there was plenty to keep us occupied at the resort, we were set on exploring the surrounding area, as well. Hiking adventures are always at the top of our list, so we climbed to the highest point in the county: Inspiration Peak. Then, we went to Maplewood State Park to hike up Hallaway Hill and take in the expansive view of the lakes and rolling hills below.

For a quirky roadside attraction, we made our way to Vining to check out the Nyberg Sculpture Park. There, we were greeted by more than 15 whimsical sculptures, including a pair of dancing silverware, a massive watermelon, an astronaut, a metal elephant and a giant cactus.

After, we popped into Disgruntled Brewing for a pint. It was great to take a break and lounge on the cozy yellow indoor couches, then head to the large patio outside, fresh brews in hand.

Looking back at our week at the lake, we can't help but smile. There's something about the fresh air and water that will keep us coming back for more—it's a tradition we want to repeat for many years to come.

FALL ON THE PAUL BUNYAN SCENIC BYWAY

By Aegor Ray

The smooth, winding road is embraced on either side by trees, their leaves patterned in striking green, warm ochre and vivid crimson shades.

Just up ahead, Trout Lake stretches expansively underneath a sky that can only be described as impossibly blue. The dance of light and water dazzles my eyes as the breeze, tinged with a phantom of chill, refreshes both my lungs and my spirit.

My long weekend trip on the Paul Bunyan Scenic Byway was autumn in Minnesota distilled. 54 miles of paved county roads loop through Pequot Lakes, Breezy Point, Crosslake, Manhattan Beach and Pine River to connect swaths of state forest, bike trails, wildlife management areas, parks and gardens. Each town the byway weaves through boasts a unique array of antique shops, handicraft markets, bait and tackle suppliers, rustic lodging and leisurely resorts. Like its folk hero namesake, the Paul Bunyan Scenic Byway is defined by its stories and quintessentially Central Minnesota landscape.

On a pristine late fall morning, I packed a picnic and took a relaxing drive with my family, hoping to spot a park or lookout to wander into for a long lunch. We settled on

REFLECTED THE SWANS'
ELEGANT NECKS,
THE MIDDAY
SUNLIGHT AND
THE IRIDESCENT
FALL FOLIAGE.

Uppgaard Wildlife Management Area in Crow Wing County, a 110-acre tract of rolling hills, wildflower gardens and small marshes. A short walk led us to a serene lookout over a pond, where a pair of swans nestled along the shore.

Between cattails and lily pads, the water reflected the swans' elegant necks, the midday sunlight and the iridescent fall foliage surrounding us.

After a couple days exploring the idyllic townships along the byway, my diverse Minnesotan family headed to northwest Minnesota for a brief venture into Bemidji, the midway point between the White Earth, Red Lake and Leech Lake Indian nations. Our Paul Bunyan-inspired pilgrimage was complete when we reached the park on Lake Bemidji that boasted giant statues of the town's lumberjack hero and his famous blue ox. Photo opportunities abound here! The park also features a playground designed to be accessible and inclusive to children with disabilities.

We took our time exploring the Bemidji Sculpture Walk, which features 37 public sculptures throughout downtown. Our favorite was the 9-foot-tall statue of Shaynowishkung ("He Who Rattles") in Library Park. Nicknamed Chief Bemidji, Shaynowishkung was an Ojibwe leader, peacemaker and the first permanent settler in Bemidji. His great-great grandson Donny Headbird was instrumental in designing this special commemorative work, and the resulting statue is a beautiful bronze casting that honors indigenous stewardship of the region we now call Minnesota.

HIGHLIGHTS ALONG THE HIGHWAYS

Looking for antiques? Head to Veterans Street in downtown Jenkins, where Annie's Attic, Finders Keepers Depot and Treasures-n-Tiques are all within walking distance of each other. Find a shapely green glass vase or a vintage leather motorcycle jacket—the sky's the limit.

Or for a panoramic view of the region, climb the historic fire tower near Pequot Lakes. The hike up to the fire tower is great for intermediate hikers and anyone—two- or four-legged—feeling restless from the car ride. Weather permitting, the tower is open to visitors, but there's no need to climb all the way up to enjoy breathtaking views of the area.

IN CENTRAL MINNESOTA

By Chris Lawton

Located roughly 90 minutes north of the Twin Cities, Lake Mille Lacs is renowned for its walleye population, but anglers also seek out its trophy smallmouth bass, muskie and northern pike.

Stretching as far as the eye can see, Mille Lacs is Minnesota's second-largest inland lake and one of the few large enough for launch fishing.

Whether you're new to fishing or an avid angler, the ease and convenience of launch fishing is a real treat and something to be experienced. Mille Lacs launches can hold up to 50 people, and most offer restrooms and outdoor grills.

More than 20 resorts and businesses on Mille Lacs offer launch fishing trips on the lake, with seasoned guide service captains to provide everything needed for a fun and leisurely fishing outing. Launch captains can even bait your hook and clean your fish, if requested, and their knowledge of the lake's hot spots will put you on the best bites.

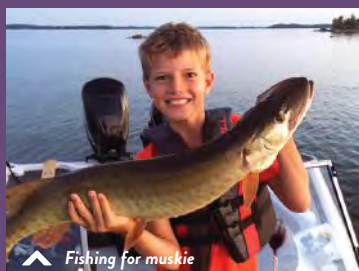

So enjoy the camaraderie of hanging with your buddies or spending quality time with the family on one of many Mille Lacs fishing launches, and leave your worries (and gear) behind!

LAKE MILLE LACS FISH

Walleye: Nicknamed "The Walleye Factory," Lake Mille Lacs offers walleye room to grow with a diverse habitat covering more than 130,000 acres.

Smallmouth Bass: Considered one of the best bass fisheries in the nation, Mille Lacs gives up a lot of trophy-sized "smallies" each year.

Muskie: The state-record muskie caught on a fly rod was pulled from Lake Mille Lacs in 2015. This monster of a fish measured 57 inches!

NORTHWEST MINNESOTA

WHERE THE PRAIRIE MEETS THE NORTH WOODS

Home to legendary sites like the headwaters of the Mississippi River, Paul Bunyan and Babe the Blue Ox, and the Northwest Angle, Northwest Minnesota is where tall tales and lasting memories are born.

Walk across the humble headwaters of the Mississippi River at Itasca State Park, or meet Minnesota's most famous lumberjack, Paul Bunyan, in Akeley or Bemidji.

Anglers who want to explore Minnesota's largest lakes can go fishing any time of year on waters like Lake of the Woods, Leech Lake and Lake Bemidji—all prime destinations for walleye, muskie and sturgeon. Birders will love the popular, 200-mile Pine to Prairie Birding Trail, home to over 275 species of birds.

This region is also where you'll find the Northwest Angle, the northernmost point in the lower 48 states. To reach this secluded wilderness outpost, born of a centuries-old mapmaking error, you'll have to traverse Lake of the Woods (by boat, float plane, or, in winter, by driving across the frozen lake) or drive through part of Canada.

By Jenny Anderson, Girl of 10,000 Lakes

There's no place like Northwest Minnesota, especially when temperatures drop and Lake of the Woods freezes over.

Come winter, this sprawling inland freshwater lake, second in size only to the Great Lakes in the continental U.S., turns into a city of fish houses with ice roads as wide as interstates, complete with road signs and speed limits. It's a sight to behold for experienced ice anglers and newcomers alike.

While most fish houses are off the ice by early-March, the jig isn't up on Lake of the Woods until nearly April. So, as the rest of Minnesota was getting ready for spring, my husband Nick and I ventured up north for a final ice fishing foray in the "Walleye Capital of the World."

The Minnesota-Canada border water has been on our bucket list since we started ice fishing together. It's known for its abundance of walleye and sauger. When the weather gets cold, the bite is hot. Plus, the area embodies the beauty of northern Minnesota with towering pine trees, no light pollution and the possibility of seeing the northern lights.

THE BEST WAY TO MAKE THE MOST OF YOUR TIME WHILE ICE FISHING IS TO SLEEP WHERE YOU FISH.

The best way to make the most of your time while ice fishing is to sleep where you fish. Nick and I fixed up an old fish house camper a few years ago. It has five holes for fishing, two beds, a camp stove and, most importantly, heat.

If you don't have your own setup, surrounding resorts offer ice fishing house rentals. You can drive to the fish house by taking the ice road or catch a ride on one of the bombardiers, which are basically tanks. They're hard to miss. If you only want to fish for a few hours, resorts offer day-use cabins too. They make fishing easy by pre-drilling your holes in the ice, warming up the fish houses to 70 degrees and getting all your fishing gear ready. If Lake of the Woods is your first experience on the ice, you're in good hands.

We loved waking up in our cozy fish house, stepping outside for a spectacular sunrise and fishing through the day and night. There were moments when two or three lines at a time had walleye and sauger on them.

We've never experienced anything like it before—we enjoyed fish fry every night. The "Walleye Capital of the World" truly lives up to its name!

FISHING GUIDES

There are over 50 resorts on Lake of the Woods and the majority of them offer guide services and outfitting for both ice fishing and the open water. If you don't want a guide, don't be afraid to ask the resort for fishing tips!

RIDE THE TRAILS

Lake of the Woods is home to over 300 miles of groomed snowmobile trails. The big lake is staked and groomed with trails for miles. Be sure to stop by the warming house on Garden Island and check out the scenery.

IGLOO BAR

Whether you're a diehard ice angler or just appreciate warm camaraderie, the Igloo Bar is a must-stop. The one-of-a-kind igloo-shaped tavern is three miles out on Lake of the Woods and serves drinks, hot food and buckets of minnows for ice fishing at your bar stool.

CROSS-COUNTRY SKIING AND SNOWSHOEING

Enjoy the beauty of Lake of the Woods while getting some exercise on snow-covered trails. You can find groomed trails from beginner to intermediate at Zippel Bay State Park, Franz Jevne State Park and Lake of the Woods School. Snowshoers can even trek through fresh powder at Beltrami Island State Forest and Pine Island State Forest.

PLACE YOUR BETS

ON NORTHWEST MINNESOTA

By Jerard Fagerberg

The northwest corner of Minnesota feels like outlaw territory.

Casinos dot the landscape, and ATV trails snake off into the backcountry along highways, ditches and county roads—the ideal destination for a raucous guys getaway. So last summer, I gathered my buddies and we burned northward for a weekend escape.

Mahnomen's Shooting Star Casino was the first post on the road. Shooting Star is little more than a stucco lodge on the White Earth Reservation, but it's one of the larger casinos in the region. This no-frills card den is where you can make the trip. We strolled right by the slot machines to the three-card poker tables. Bets last longer there than at the blackjack tables, and a big win can send you sailing the rest of the weekend. That was not our luck. Some in the group busted early.

Some hung around and busted late. In either case, the drink carts were busy, and the night ran long.

After two nights at Shooting Star, we traded its neon lights for a chance to explore the Fourtown-Grygla ATV trails. We rolled into Grygla and unloaded our trailer of ATVs (we brought our own, but you can have rentals delivered from the Twin Cities or Brainerd). With 170 miles of trails on the Fourtown-Grygla system alone, it was easy to forget any lost bets.

WE OPENED THE THROTTLES WIDE, THE SNORTS OF OUR ATVS BATTLING AS WE TOURED THE EDGES OF BELTRAMI ISLAND STATE FOREST.

We opened the throttles wide, the snorts of our ATVs battling as we toured the edges of Beltrami Island State Forest. When the trails broke into the trees, we were glancing out the sides of our goggles, hoping to spy some wildlife. But the only bear that afternoon was my hangover from the night before, and I quelled it with two-stroke engine exhaust.

The adventure continued toward the U.S.-Canada border, with a final stop in Warroad and the Seven Clans Casino.

We spent the morning at Warroad Estates Golf Course, only 10 minutes from the hotel, wagering over putts. Lowest score got the best chair at the blackjack table, highest two had to share beds.

Of the state's three Seven Clans Casino locations, Warroad is the only one that serves alcohol, so it was the obvious choice for our group's final stop—and shot at a jackpot. The night started coy with slots, but it wasn't long before well drinks had us throwing chips together to make the blackjack minimums. When your trip is about to end, there's not much else to do but go for it.

We must've sworn a dozen times that this hand would be our last, only to ante up for another. Every split or double felt like it would be the one that switched our luck, each dealer flop a cresting frontier. We were chasing—we knew it and we loved it.

TAP INTO BREWERIES

The taprooms of Northwest Minnesota make for perfect pit stops on the road north.

Start at Bemidji Brewing, a standby known for their classic styles. In nearby Moorhead, Junkyard Brewing does the exact opposite, with over-the-top candy stouts and bizarre sours dominating the menu. We loaded the trunk with crowlers to share back home.

In the tiny town of Hallock, only 25 miles from Manitoba, Revelation Ale Works sits in the most remote location of any brewery in Minnesota. There, we became part of the select class of travelers that drinks their decadent Peanut Butter Stout on site.

BIRDING ALONG THE PINE TO PRAIRIE BIRDING TRAIL

By Chris Lawton

Spanning more than 200 miles between Fergus Falls and Warroad, the Pine to Prairie Birding Trail is Minnesota's foremost birding destination.

Its route includes pine forests, native tallgrass prairie, sand dunes (remnants of Glacial Lake Agassiz), deciduous woodlands and more, shaping a habitat well-suited to support over 275 species of birds.

There are 51 designated viewing sites along the trail, identifiable by green birding trail signs. Two stops along the way are designated Important Bird Areas by the National Audubon Society: Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge near Thief River Falls, and Tamarac National Wildlife Refuge north of Detroit Lakes. Agassiz is a large, expansive refuge that is an excellent place for birding during migration periods. Tamarac is known for its woodland and boreal species, including the great gray owl.

DAKOTA ADVENTURES

IN THE MINNESOTA RIVER VALLEY

By Cheyanne St. John

Southern Minnesota, from Welch in the east to Granite Falls in the west, offers some of the state's greatest educational, cultural and recreational sites, including some that are extremely important to my people—the Dakota.

Linking them all is our state's namesake river, Mni Sota wakpa (the Minnesota River). On a recent weekend, I set out to explore various Dakota and scenic spots along the astonishing 300-mile Minnesota River Valley Scenic Byway.

My pilgrimage began in Welch at the Dakota Nation called Tinta Winta, the Prairie Island Indian Community. First up was the tribe's summer wacipi (powwow). Here, I found myself surrounded by some of the best indigenous dancers, singers and cultural art vendors in the region, along with Native and non-Native audiences sharing in the celebration. The vibrant colors of the feathers, beadwork and ribbons were mesmerizing.

I spent most of the morning and early afternoon watching competition dancing while chomping on an Indian taco—a fluffy frybread with taco toppings. By afternoon, I felt the call of the breathtaking Mississippi River Valley and headed out for some rambunctious activity of my own.

At Frontenac State Park, about 15 miles south of Red Wing, I hiked the 2.7-mile Bluffs Trail, which led me to the park's unique geological feature, Inyan Tiopa (stone entry). As a site of traditional ceremony and burial, it's quite significant to the Dakota people. I took a moment to center myself and breathe in the scenery before completing the trail loop.

The next day, I drove 125 miles eastward to a second Dakota Nation—the Morton-based Canŝayapi, or Lower Sioux Indian Community—and took a quiet stroll along the Lower Sioux Agency (LSA) historic site's trails. The views of the tree canopy above the Minnesota River were gorgeous!

Afterwards, I toured the Lower Sioux Agency interpretive center, which showcases a tumultuous period in U.S.-Dakota relations, as well as a present-day snapshot of the Lower Sioux. I leaned into the virtual reality exhibit, hands-on learning trunks and the giftshop's pottery by Lower Sioux artists.

Following my exploration of LSA, I stopped in Ramsey Park in Redwood Falls where I hit the trails and admired the Dakota-language park signs. The park is within the corridor known to the Dakota as Canŝayapi ("where the trees are painted red"). Historically, Dakota people marked hundreds of traditional and sacred places in Minnesota in their language, and the five new park signs extend that tradition. I simply couldn't leave without checking out the buffalo, elk and goats in the park zoo and watching the incredible Redwood Falls tumble toward the rocks below.

Finally, I headed to the west end of the Minnesota River Valley Scenic Byway corridor and the trip's third Dakota Nation—Pezutazizi, the Upper Sioux Community (USC). I spent the day exploring the natural and historic sites of the Upper Sioux Agency State Park, the location of the original agency lost in the Dakota War of 1862. I walked the Terrace and Raspberry loop trails, then toured the two on-site historic structures—the duplex and annuity building. My journey ended with a visit to the tipi campgrounds inside the park's tipi demo, where replicas of traditional Dakota tipi items were on display.

SEE BISON & PRAIRIE

IN SOUTHWEST MINNESOTA

At one point, bison and prairie were abundant in Minnesota.

These days, both are a rare sight. But near the soaring, 100-foot-high Sioux quartzite cliff at Blue Mounds State Park, one of the world's last remaining herds of purebred bison roams and grazes in the park's vast tallgrass prairie—a time traveler's glimpse of what the state once looked like.

To see the bison, set out for a hike on the Western Loop Trail; visit the bison observation deck and use a spotting scope to view the herd; or, book a spot on the park's Prairie and Bison Tour—a guided, 90-minute educational drive through the bison habitat.

BIKING FOR PIE:

A WEEKEND ON THE ROOT RIVER TRAIL

by Zoey Cole

When I was young, my family took many trips to Lanesboro to bike the Root River State Trail, but as my sister and I got older, our busy lives kept us from returning.

So when my sister accepted a new job as a nurse, we decided to celebrate with a trip to our old haunts along the Root River Valley. The 60-mile trail offers some of the most stunning views in southeastern Minnesota, including wildflower fields and limestone bluffs overflowing with trees.

As kids, we camped with our parents in Lanesboro's Sylvan Park, learning to fish in the park's well-stocked ponds. When we rolled into town Friday evening, we drove around the park, the tennis courts and the fishing ponds. My sister pointed out the Lanesboro Dam and reminded me of the time we tried to "free" my dad's bait minnows into the falls.

Instead of camping, we booked the Bicycle Loft Suite at Stone Mill Hotel and Suites, a converted granary built circa 1885. We unpacked our bags before walking to Pedal Pushers Cafe for Norwegian meatballs and a hearty chef salad. That night, we tucked ourselves under quilts made by the area's legendary Amish craftswomen.

On Saturday morning, we walked to the Lanesboro Pastry Shoppe for hash browns and fried eggs, then picked up our rental bikes at Little River General Store. We started biking down the Scenic Downtown Pathway and headed out for the 28-mile round trip from Lanesboro to Peterson and back. After 30 minutes of biking along the lively Root River through the Bluff Country's beautiful nature, craggy outcroppings and goldenrod-sprinkled prairies, we arrived in Whalan where a heavenly Aroma awaited.

Housed in a small, yellow-sided building, the Aroma Pie Shoppe in Whalan is a local legend with a perpetual line out front and pies that sell out quickly. As we waited, we argued over what flavors to split and pinned down our top choices: chocolate cashew, strawberry rhubarb, and my personal favorite, sour cream lemon.

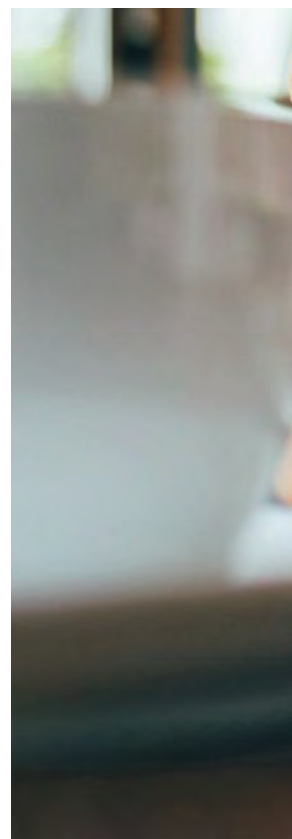

A couple slices of pie, we continued to Peterson, where we stopped at the Station Museum and ate burgers and fries at Burdey's Cafe. As we biked back, the sky grew darker over the bluffs and a flock of wild turkeys strutted across the trail. We arrived in Lanesboro just in time to catch the sunset from Sylvan Park.

On Sunday morning, we packed up the car and drove to Historic Forestville, with fishing rods our father (an avid fisherman) had insisted we bring. We spent the afternoon fishing and exploring the town, which was established in 1853 when settlers from England, Ireland, Germany and Holland arrived. Forestville's well-preserved buildings make it feel like you're stepping into the 1800s.

With the quiet of the day, we reflected on our first camping trip so many years ago and how much we both still loved this part of Minnesota. Even after so much time, there's still new beauty (and new pie flavors) to find.

WE ARGUED OVER WHAT FLAVORS TO SPLIT AND PINNED DOWN OUR TOP CHOICES: CHOCOLATE CASHEW, STRAWBERRY RHUBARB, AND MY PERSONAL FAVORITE, SOUR CREAM LEMON.

A FAMILY ROAD TRIP

ON THE GREAT RIVER ROAD

By Lisa Havelka

“After a long and beautiful winter, I buckled up my kids for a quick spring road trip to stretch our legs and see the landscape as it started to bloom.

In Red Wing, our first stop was Barn Bluff Regional Park. The 2.9-mile hike took us to the top of a limestone bluff with panoramic views of the river and historic downtown. Back on Main Street, we visited the Red Wing Shoe Company Museum—home to both the beloved Minnesota brand and World’s Largest Boot.

Back in the car, we headed south to the Wabasha-Kellogg area for a stop at Lark Toys, an eclectic toy store that’s part amusement park and part antique toy museum. After a ride on the hard-carved wooden carousel, we ate lunch at Slippery’s in downtown Wabasha, known for its appearance in the movie Grumpy Old Men.

Outside, bald eagles soared above us along the river. Eager to learn more, we hit the National Eagle Center. I loved standing by the floor-to-ceiling windows to take in the incredible view of the river; my kids loved meeting the center’s resident bald and golden eagles.

Finally, we wrapped up our little family road trip at Bloedow’s Bakery in downtown Winona. Easily my favorite donut shop in Minnesota, the kids grabbed a few donuts from the bakery case, and I bought a frosted cookie for the drive home.

NORTHEAST MINNESOTA:

WHERE WATER MEETS WILDERNESS

Also known as the Arrowhead region, Northeast Minnesota is a land of rugged beauty unlike any other.

Up in the northernmost reaches of the lower 48, plan a houseboat escape at Voyageurs National Park, a 218,000-acre park that's more than one-third water. Or head out for a week in the famed Boundary Waters Canoe Area Wilderness, where you can canoe and portage between more than 1,000 lakes in one of America's most remote settings. Both spots offer stellar stargazing and opportunities to see the northern lights.

Nearby, the Mesabi Iron Range is the heart of Minnesota's mining country and home to some of the state's best ATV and bike trails.

For an unforgettable road trip, follow the North Shore of Lake Superior between the bustling port city of Duluth and the U.S.-Canada border. Along the way, you'll find some of the state's most iconic scenery and natural beauty, eight state parks with tumbling waterfalls and lakefront trails, and charming waterfront towns.

Whether you want rugged wilderness or a cozy lakeside lodge, you'll find it in Northeast Minnesota.

A DAY OF WINTER FUN IN DULUTH

By Hansi Johnson

Duluth offers every variety of winter sport—I experienced three in just a single day!

My idea of a perfect Duluth winter day is to complete the “snowfecta” of ice climbing, cross-country skiing and fat biking before sunset.

I start the day with a hearty breakfast at the perky Sunshine Cafe, a small diner in West Duluth that produces great home-style meals. Fortified for action, I then head over to nearby Quarry Park for some breathtaking ice climbing. This former industrial site has been re-imagined and is now one of Duluth’s most amazing winter sports hubs.

The ice tools make a satisfying thump as I swing them at the imposing 80’ wall of verglas. My heart hammers, while my adrenaline propels me up the climb. Topping out, I swing lazily back down on my rope, much to my belayers adulation, against a backdrop of waterfalls and, below, the city of Duluth.

Stoked, I hop in my truck and roll down to the blossoming Lincoln Park Craft District and the Dovetail Café for a warm-up and a bump of espresso.

Time for a fast-paced Nordic ski at the Grand Avenue Nordic Center (GANC)! Guaranteed snow and daily grooming make GANC the top choice for an exhilarating skate ski. I push off and glide across the pristine snow, loving the fresh corduroy under my feet. My front teeth tingle as the cold kisses my extra wide smile, my breath streaming behind me as I fly up the trail.

Famished, I’m glad Northern Waters Smokehaus is just a short jaunt away. I savor a masterpiece of a sandwich while staring out the window of the deli and watch snowflakes filter down through the sunlight and people bustle through Canal Park.

I can see my fat bike dangling off the back of my truck in the parking lot, begging me for a fast ride at the Mission Creek trail system.

As the sun sets, a glowing spray of powder spins off the front wheel of my bike. Silently, I float on Mission Creek’s hard-packed singletrack trails through mature stands of White Pine and Birch trees, a Great Grey owl swooping away as I pass.

I load my bike on my truck and daydream of a tasty pint and warm bar at Bent Paddle Brewing Co., where I’ll sip and plan another snowfecta day in Duluth.

EXTEND YOUR TRIP

If snowboarding or downhill skiing is more your game, head to the Grand Avenue Chalet at Spirit Mountain to hit one of Minnesota's best lift-served snow sliding experiences. Spirit Mountain has a high-speed quad to help you quickly access its 22 runs, and a super-fast tow rope for hitting its high-quality terrain park if you go for lapping rails and sliding boxes.

Want to extend your Duluth winter sports day into the night? Recharge with a woodfired pizza and well-crafted beer at the Ursa Minor Brewery on West Superior Street. Then get your ice skates on and hit the flawless ice at Bayfront Park rink for some pirouettes and triple axles under the crystal-clear night sky.

Wind the long day down with a Vikre cocktail and some bistro food at the Zeitgeist Arts Cafe downtown, then cross the street to check out what play is showing at the historic, newly renovated NorShor Theatre. If you'd rather listen to live music, The Ripple Bar on Canal Park is the perfect place.

MEET HANSI

Hansi Johnson is a life-long winter sports enthusiast and works for the Minnesota Land Trust. When not Nordic skiing, fat bike riding or ice fishing, Hansi can be found, camera in hand, documenting and advocating for outdoor recreation in Minnesota's amazing natural spaces.

BIKING & OFF-ROADING

THE MESABI IRON RANGE

By Glenn Hansen

“Once covered with mountains and a shallow sea, the stretch of Northeast Minnesota known as the Iron Range evolved to serve up mining riches around the year 1890.

Iron Range miners built the towns of Grand Rapids, Hibbing, Virginia, Ely and more, while the region’s deep iron ore deposits fed American industry’s hunger for steel and earned attention from business magnates named Rockefeller and Carnegie.

While mining interests remain, the red earth of the Iron Range keeps evolving—most recently into a playground for outdoor adventures like biking.

When I want to stretch my legs and get outdoors on the Iron Range, I grab my bike and head to the Mesabi Trail. Running more than 130 miles across The Range, the 68-mile stretch from Grand Rapids to Virginia is my favorite ride.

The Mesabi is not a flat-and-straight trail by any means. It’s full of short, rolling hills that climb and descend the steep ridges of the region’s iconic mining pits, delivering incredible Iron Range vistas at the top of every climb.

Heading north out of Grand Rapids, the trail weaves through birch, aspen and hardwood forests. Many of the once-deep mines are now filled with water, forming pit lakes bordered by red rock walls 100 feet high.

As the trail rolls and winds its way from Hibbing to Chisholm, you’ll see some of the best mining views as you cycle beside the Hull-Rust Mahoning Mine—the largest operating open-pit iron mine in Minnesota. Hibbing is also the hometown of two American icons: Bob Dylan and the Greyhound Bus. For a throwback experience and opportunity to rest your legs, tour the Greyhound Bus

Museum in Hibbing before heading back onto the trail.

It’s about 20 more miles to Virginia, the midsection of the Mesabi Trail. I like to end my rides here with an overnight stay at the Lakeshor Motor Inn, which scores a hattrick for my lodging priorities: inexpensive, near downtown and on a lake. As a bonus, it’s also near the Virginia High Bridge, the state’s tallest bridge, which arguably offers the best vista on the entire trail. From the hotel, crossing this span is an uphill pedal, but the view of the Rouchleau Mine Pit is worth the elevated heart rate. And after taking in the view, you can coast back into town.

ATVING THE IRON RANGE

On days when I feel like trading two wheels for four, Virginia is just a 15-minute drive from the Iron Range OHV State Recreation Area (IROHV) in Gilbert.

The IROHV features 36 miles of off-road trails, plus open riding areas. I like to start on the Sidewinder Trail; like most here, it carves an iron-red path through dense woods. Warmed up and feeling daring, I then turn onto Tailpipe Lane, a “most difficult” trail with suspension-testing rocks and off-camber corners. Perfect for skilled off-roaders.

Bring your camera to Hercules Hills, or for a spin down the aptly named Hug The Bank trail. I like watching experienced 4x4 pilots crawl over rocks in The Gorge.

The IROHV park is built and maintained with trails for every skill level, and a purpose-built wash station lets you rinse away the iron-red dirt from your ride. But as you’ll soon learn, that famous Iron Range red dirt will stay in your heart forever.

A MOST SPECTACULAR LIGHT SHOW

By Lauren Sauer

“The northern lights are a show of atmospheric proportions unlike any other, handily dwarfing the quaint efforts of Fourth of July fireworks or any number of holiday light strings.

And, as the northernmost state in the lower 48, Minnesota is the perfect place to admire the northern lights in all their glory.

Accessible primarily by canoe, the Boundary Waters Canoe Area Wilderness is a vast area of protected land along the U.S.-Canada border that's home to over 1,100 of the world's purest lakes. As Minnesota's first designated Dark Sky Sanctuary, it's also the ideal place to witness the northern lights. I grew up camping in this remote wilderness regularly—paddling deep into the forest to set up a tent beneath the stars—but only saw the northern lights once.

It was late August, and I was camping with my family on a small lake deep in the Boundary Waters. We were miles from a cell signal and even farther from the closest flush toilet.

Early one chilly morning—around 3 a.m., I think—my dad shook the whole family awake to get us to come outside. His voice made it sound urgent, so we reluctantly pulled on our warmest socks and sweatshirts, strapped on our headlamps, then stumbled out of the tent to the lakeshore, where we were greeted by a most awesome sight.

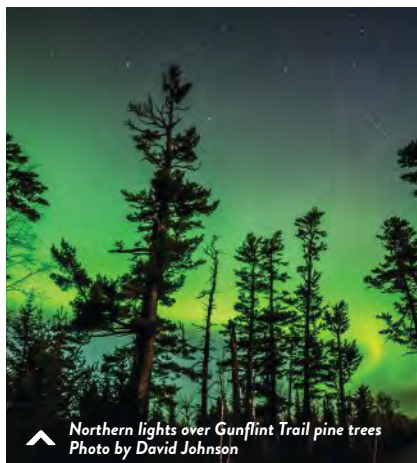

Across the northern side of the star-filled night sky, broad streaks of bright green were flaring and rippling into one another, reflecting gracefully off the glass surface of the water like figure skaters. Standing under thousands of stars with vibrant light swirling high up in the Earth's atmosphere, I felt so wonderfully small.

We watched the lights dance across the sky in silence for what could've been a few minutes or a few hours, soaking in the sight with our mouths slightly agape. The show went on like this long after we zipped back into our sleeping bags, the bright green light playing off the walls of our tent as we struggled to get back to sleep. A disruption most divine.

Nature has a wonderful way of reminding us where we stand in the greater scheme of things, and of all the earthly wonders I've witnessed, nothing felt quite as grand as the aurora. Sure, there's a perfectly good scientific explanation for how it occurs, but that's not what inspires us to venture deep into the wilderness to witness the show, and it was miles from my mind as I stood in silent amazement, trying my best not to blink as the stellar lights whirled before my eyes.

NATURE HAS A WONDERFUL WAY OF REMINDING US WHERE WE STAND IN THE GREATER SCHEME OF THINGS.

TIPS FOR SEEING THE NORTHERN LIGHTS

Planning a trip around the aurora borealis is notoriously tricky, and no matter how much planning goes into your trip, there's no guarantee you'll see the northern lights. But you can still tip the odds in your favor.

There isn't a decisive consensus over the best time of year to view them, but given the longer, clearer skies of fall and winter, your odds of catching them get better from September through March.

The sky also needs to be clear and dark enough for them to be visible, which requires getting far away from any traces of light pollution. Venture into the northernmost reaches of Minnesota for the best borealis-viewing spots, like the Boundary Waters, Voyageurs National Park, Lake of the Woods and all of Cook County.

STAY YOUR WAY

Plan a Minnesota journey to fit your travel style

If you're anything like us, you love planning vacations almost as much as taking them. So, as you fantasize about what shape your Minnesota vacation will take, spark your imagination with these five ideas.

1. MAKE FAMILY MEMORIES AT A RESORT

Whether you prefer fishing on the lake, unwinding at the spa, playing a round of golf or simply toasting marshmallows around the campfire, Minnesota resorts are the perfect place to get away and experience life's simpler pleasures.

2. EXPLORE MINNESOTA'S CITIES FROM A HOTEL

To experience everything from international flavors and pro sports in the Twin Cities to the historic charm of Rochester and outdoor adventures in Duluth and beyond, book a hotel in the heart of it all. It's a surefire way to access the best arts, culture, restaurants and entertainment Minnesota has to offer.

3. ADVENTURE & RELAX ON A MINNESOTA CAMPING TRIP

Whether you're planning a solo adventure in Minnesota's legendary Boundary Waters Canoe Area Wilderness or seeking a group site for your next family reunion, Minnesota's idyllic lakes, rivers and forests make every camping trip one to remember. And with accommodations that include yurts and cabins, your memories will go far beyond the ordinary.

4. FIND WINTER WHIMSY AT A MINNESOTA B&B

Minnesota's bed & breakfasts and historic inns provide a perfect setting for a cozy romantic escape or a charming weekend of quiet luxury—and winter is the ideal season for a B&B getaway.

5. FIND FLOATING FUN ON A HOUSEBOAT

If you love being on the water and want some quality time with family or friends, climb aboard a houseboat and say 'bon voyage' to your routine with a one-of-a-kind getaway on some of Minnesota's most beautiful bodies of water.

A low-angle photograph of a rock climber ascending a steep, light-colored rock face. The climber is wearing a dark shirt and shorts, and is secured by a blue rope. In the foreground, a person's arm is visible, holding the rope and a green carabiner. The background shows a clear sky and some distant trees.
